Preface

The Yijing (or I Ching, when using the Wade-Giles romanization system) is a book from the Chinese Bronze Age (about 1000 BC) and as many other ancient texts, it was written by a process of aggregation of material from different periods and authors.

By the time of the Han dynasty (206 BC to 220 AD) it became something similar to the text we know today as the “Classic of Changes” or “Book of Changes” (易经). Of course, the interpretation of the text has changed over time, but the ordering of the material has remained unchanged since the Han Dynasty to the present.

The Classic of Changes is composed of 64 short chapters, composed of several elements and 10 appendixes, known as “The Ten Wings”.

The parts of each chapter (commonly called hexagrams) are:

- A graphic symbol (卦 Gua), which is a drawing composed of six parallel lines, some filled and other broken. Example: .
- A text that explains the meaning of the hexagram and whose first one or two characters give it its name (卦辞 GuaCi), commonly called “The Judgment”.
- Short texts attached to each of the six lines (爻辞 YaoCi), except for the hexagrams 1 and 2 that have seven texts.
- Several texts, from the Ten Wings: The Image (DaXiang), the Tuan Commentary, etc.

Composition of the text according to Chinese tradition

Legend has it that FuXi (伏羲) designed the 64 hexagrams (hypothetically about 3000 BC) and King Wen (周文王) wrote the texts that accompany each hexagram, GuaCi, “The Judgment”.

His son, the Duke Dan of Zhou (周公旦) added explanatory texts for each line of the hexagrams.

The texts due to King Wen and his son were known in his time (the Bronze Age in China) as Zhou Yi (周易), “The Changes of the Zhou” being Zhou the name of the dynasty started by King Wen.

Several hundred years later, the Confucian school added comments to the text, which are known as the Ten Wings (十翼 Shi Yi), and are divided into ten parts.

These comments can be placed at the end of the text, as appendixes, or inserted into each hexagram, as is usually done with the commentary called “The Image”, which comprises part of the Wings 3rd and 4th.

Modern hypothesis about the origin of the text

On the origin of the hexagrams symbols and the texts that accompany them there is no certainty, but it might be possible that the traditional story about the composition of the text (The Judgment and the lines) is correct and that King Wen—which was a real historical figure—was the compiler of texts from the oracular tradition (circa 1000 BC), and that his son did something similar for the lines of the hexagrams.

The Ten Wings come from various sources, some of them certainly are of the Confucian school, but it is not currently believed that they are a direct work from the hand of Confucius. Probably the Ten Wings were composed between 200 BC and 200 A.D., during the Han dynasty

European translations

The first translations from Chinese to Western languages were done by Jesuits, who translated the text into Latin and French. Much later, during the nineteenth century English and French translations began to appear.

The most prestigious of the English translations of the nineteenth century was that of James Legge; the following translation of importance (in German) was the one from Richard Wilhelm, which was published in 1924. Later, this same translation was translated into English by Cary Baynes, and published in 1950. It remains the most popular English translation until today.

Throughout the XX century many other translations appeared, but most of them were only recombinations of previous versions but not true translations.

In the last decades of the twentieth century several new English translations tried to shed light on the original meaning of the Yi Jing, going as far back to its origins as a document from the Bronze Age, trying to separate the layers of the original text to understand the original meaning of the earlier parts of the text. Some of them are the translations from Kunst, Rutt, Shaughnessy and Whincup; all of them attempt to elucidate the original meaning of the Chinese characters in the earlier layers of the Yi Jing.

Limitations of translations to Western languages

Most Chinese characters have a wide range of meanings, and its symbolic richness makes them particularly suitable for oracular use. When translated into another language it is impossible to preserve the multiple meanings in the original text, because the translator is forced to choose words that cannot cover the full range of meanings of the Chinese characters.

As an example, a common character (repeated 34 times) in the Yijing is 悔, hui, commonly translated as “repentance.” That translation is not incorrect, but the word originally meant “problems.” Considering both meanings, the word refers to an objective situation and the internal reaction to it, but there is not an English word that covers the two meanings.

Another common word is 亨, heng, which appears 47 times, and means “success, achievement, satisfaction, growth, penetration, offering, sacrifice.” Any translation into a Western language will exclude some of those meanings. It is usually translated as “success” but that word does not cover the rich array of meanings of the original word.

Introduction to the Translation

This translation attempts to facilitate an approach to the YiJing original text*. It includes The Judgment (GuaCi) and the comments for the lines. From the Ten Wings it only includes The Image (DaXiang).

For each Chinese character it shows its pronunciation and its assigned number, to allow finding it in the dictionary.

The characters shown on a gray background at the start of each hexagram are the ones used as tag for each hexagram, which are the hexagram's "title". Most of the hexagrams use a single character as tag, although some use two.

This translation attempts to maintain balance between two extremes:

- A literal translation, which would be very difficult to understand, and;
- A translation of high literary level that for the sake of style would distort the meaning of the text.

Since Chinese characters have gained new meanings but also lost some archaic meanings, along the millennia, when possible, we choose words that cover both the original and the newer meanings, always inside the time frame from

* The original text used for this translation is 周易折中 Zhouyi Zhezhang, "Balanced Comments on Zhouyi", published in 1715 under the patronage of Qing Dynasty, is the same text used by Wilhelm and many other sinologists as the basis of their translations.

 A good example is the term in JunZi, 君子, which appears 73 times in the text. In many translations it is translated as "noble," which captures well the range of meanings of JunZi, but in some versions it is translated as "superior man", a term used by the Confucian school. It is not wrong to use the term "superior man", but it restricts arbitrarily the range of meanings and leaves out the original meaning used by the author of the ZhouYi. Using "noble" is preferable because it covers both the original (son of a lord) and the newer (superior man) meanings.

1000 BC to 200 AD, which was the approximate time when the Ten Wings were ended.

The graphic layout of the Chinese characters was designed to reduce the space occupied on the page, so that each hexagram can fit in two pages. Line breaks are not significant.

The Chinese characters indicating the numbering of the lines were omitted, because they do not add anything to the text's meaning.

Introduction to the Dictionary

The dictionaries of Chinese characters can be divided into two different types: dictionaries of single characters and dictionaries of words (composed of multiple characters).

Currently, most Chinese language words are composed of several characters, but in antiquity that was not the case.

This dictionary is primarily a dictionary of characters, although it also explains many multi-character words.

Unfortunately the Chinese characters do not have a single pronunciation; multiple characters may share the same sound. For example 悔 pronunciation is hui3, but also other 16 characters have the same pronunciation, and there are 127 different characters that are pronounced hui, regardless of the accent (which is indicated by the number).

For most of the twentieth century the Wade-Giles system was used to indicate how to pronounce Chinese characters. Wade-Giles is a romanization system, which shows the pronunciation with western letters. But in the last decades of the 20th century, the Pinyin pronunciation system (meaning “sound-spelling”) was adopted by China and since then it prevailed almost universally.

Pinyin uses four tones to indicate the pronunciation of each syllable, indicating the tone either with different accents (e.g., huī, huí, huǐ and huì) or with numbers (e.g. hui1, hui2, hui3 and hui4).

In this dictionary, the pronunciation of each character is indicated using Pinyin. The numbers shown in Pinyin syllables indicate the accent. The appendix on PinYin pronunciation has more information about this topic.

The numbers assigned to the characters are the same used by the Mathew’s Chinese-English dictionary. Notice that characters with numeration over 7773 are not included in Mathew's dictionary. Also the numbers used by Karlgren's Grammata Serica Recensa dictionary are shown for each character.

The radical number and stroke count for each character are indicated as well. This is useful when looking for the definition of a character in other dictionaries than Mathew's or Karlgren's, since locating characters by radical number and stroke count is very common in Chinese dictionaries.

The meaning of some Chinese characters has been maintained throughout the ages, but in many cases new meanings have been added and/or old meanings have changed.

In general, we have attempted to provide both the archaic and the modern meanings. To avoid confusion anachronisms and modern meanings, not in use in the past, are omitted.

To indicate where characters are located in the text, the placement of the characters is shown by adding a point and a letter or number after the number of the hexagram.

0 indicates The Judgment;

1 to 6 indicate a Line number;

7 indicates the comment for the cases when all lines change, in hexagrams 1 or 2;

X indicates The Image.

Characters included in this dictionary

This dictionary includes all the characters found in The Judgment, The Image and the lines. Although the image is of much later origin than the Judgment and lines (the texts known as Zhou Yi), it has become common to include the image next to the oldest texts and we follow that custom. In total the dictionary includes more than 900 characters, plus dozens of words composed of multiple characters.

Since 1956 simplified characters are in use in China, but this work shows only the traditional characters used for the last two millennia.

Archaic characters are found in inscriptions on oracle bones (mostly from the Shang Dynasty). Other ancient characters can be found in archaic bronzes of the Shang and Zhou dynasties. In many cases these archaic characters are shown in the dictionary, below the normal ones, when they clarify the character's original meaning.

占
0125

Karlgren: 618a
PinYin: zhan1
Rad./Strokes: 25+3

Divine by casting lots, prognosticating; observe signs; foretell by looking at an augury or using yarrow wands (Achillea sibirica or mongolica).

戰
0147

Karlgren: 147r
PinYin: zhan4
Rad./Strokes: 62+12

Battle, struggle, fight, war, combat; hostilities.

章 0182

Karlgren: 723a
PinYin: zhang1
Rad./Strokes: 117+6

Brilliance, splendor, refinement, distinction; ornament, emblem of distinction, jade tablet; amulet.

Its short form, with the jade radical, means “jade baton”.

Wilhelm/Baynes translates it as lines, but most other translators use words as elegancy, splendor, brilliant qualities, etc.

張
0195

Karlgren: 721h
PinYin: zhang1
Rad./Strokes: 57+8

Draw taut (a bow), string the bow; stretch, extend. Has many other related meanings but only the first ones are pertinent.

From 弓, “bow” and 0213 長, phonetic.

丈
0200

Karlgren: 722a
PinYin: zhang4
Rad./Strokes: 1+2

Strong, mature, a married man; responsible; respectable; gentleman. One to be respected.

長

0213

Karlgren: 721a
PinYin: zhang3
Rad./Strokes: 168+0

Eldest, grown-up, senior, superior, leader, chief, maturity, tenured. Long, long lasting; tall.

常

0221

Karlgren: 725e
PinYin: chang2
Rad./Strokes: 50+8

Regular lot or duty; constant, always, lasting; perpetuate; frequent, regular, recurring; a rule or principle.

鬯

0232

Karlgren: 719a
PinYin: chang4
Rad./Strokes: 192+0

Aromatic spirits, libation, sacrificial spirits made up by fermenting millet (Panicum miliaceum) and fragrant herbs. Shows a chalice, and what is inside it; below there is a 5076 匕 sacrificial spoon.

Older versions show clearly the chalice filled with a libation:

朝

0233

Karlgren: 1143a
PinYin: zhao1
Rad./Strokes: 74+8

Morning, dawn, is the original meaning, but since the king held court at dawn and transacted state business early in the morning, it also means audience.

昭

0236

Karlgren: 1131m
PinYin: zhao1
Rad./Strokes: 72+5

Bright, brilliant, brightness of the sun; enlighten, display, show, manifest; illustrious.

From 3124 日, “sun” and 召, “imperial decree; summon”, phonetic.

Related with 0238 照.

照

0238

Karlgren: 1131o
PinYin: zhao4
Rad./Strokes: 86+9

Shine, illumine; enlighten; to look after.

Related with 0236 昭, but adds “fire”

2395 灺 (火) below 昭.

巢

0253

Karlgren: 1169a
PinYin: chao2
Rad./Strokes: 47+8

Nest, a nest in a tree; haunt, retreat, den.

Shows a tree 4593 木, a nest 6362 田 and feathers 1439 𠂔.

The characters used for “nest” and “feathers” do not have such meanings, but that is what 巢 means.

Older versions are more graphic:

折

0267

Karlgren: 287a
PinYin: zhe2
Rad./Strokes: 64+4

Sever, break; bend, destroy, execute; decide a cause, discriminate, judge.

From 扌 (手), “hand” and 斤, “axe”.

宅

0275

Karlgren: 780b
PinYin: zhai2
Rad./Strokes: 40+3

Position, residence, dwelling, place for settlement; inhabit; consolidate.

From 宀, “house roof” and 毛, phonetic.

澤

0277

Karlgren: 790o
PinYin: ze2
Rad./Strokes: 85+13

Marsh, pool, pond, lake; flat body of water and the vapors rising from it; enrich, fertilize, benefit; moist, moisten; glossy, polished.

See 6560 兌 (the ideogram for The Lake trigram: ☱ and 9000, The Trigrams).

車

0280

Karlgren: 74a
PinYin: che1
Rad./Strokes: 159+0

Chariot, wagon, cart, carriage.

Shows the wheels at the sides of the carriage, older versions in bronze and bone also show the horses:

See also 0398 乘: ride, mount.

掣

0282

Karlgren: 335c
PinYin: che4
Rad./Strokes: 64+8

Drag, to trail, to hinder, obstruct.

From 0986 制, “regulate” and 手, “hand”.

枕

0308

Karlgren: 656g
PinYin: zhen3
Rad./Strokes: 75+4

Pillow, to use as a pillow; rest, resting place; stop, lean back on, soften, relax; a stake to tether cattle.

Rutt, Kunst and Shaughnessy replace this character with 沉: deep; to sink; to perish.

振

0313

Karlgren: 455p
PinYin: zhen4
Rad./Strokes: 64+7

Excite, shake, quake (Kunst), arouse action; save help; arrange, to marshal troops; to restore order.

From 扌 (手), “hand” and 辰, phonetic.

Related with 0315 震.

震

0315

Karlgren: 455s
PinYin: zhen4
Rad./Strokes: 173+7

Shock; clap of thunder; fear; awe inspiring; stimulation, movement, excitation; to excite, to terrify; to quicken; endow, succor.

Related with 0313 振 and with the ☳ trigram: The Arousing (Shock, Thunder) (Hex. 51). See 9000: The Eight Trigrams.

臣

0327

Karlgren: 377a
PinYin: chen2
Rad./Strokes: 131+0

Servant, retainer, vassal, statesman, officer (41.6); male slave, male bondservant or may be a slave couple (33.3).

7037 王臣: 39.2: king minister.

1715 君臣: 62.2: prince minister.

貞

0346

Karlgren: 834g
PinYin: zhen1
Rad./Strokes: 154+2

Perseverance, persistence, determination, steadiness, firmness; straight, correct, verified, certain; pure, loyal.

This ideogram is the most repeated in the Yijing and also one of the most important to understand the meaning of the text.

In the last decades of the XX century the study of old oracular bone inscriptions shed new light on the original meaning of 貞.

貞 defines the divination act. Originally meant “to determine an uncertain matter through divination”. This determination of the propitiousness of external factors, with time changed to an interior determination, subjective commitment to do what is right (Kunst). The oldest character versions show a metal incense container in which the divination cracks were made on ox shoulder blades (scapulimancy) or the under-parts of turtle-shells (plastro-mancy) (See 3621 龜: turtle):

貞 is also one of the “four cardinal virtues”: yuan heng li zhen: 7707 元 2099 亨 3867 利 貞.

See also 9001: The four cardinal virtues. It appears 111 times.

正

0351

Karlgren: 833j
PinYin: zheng4
Rad./Strokes: 77+1

Correct, proper, upright, straight; correct, regulate, chief, ruler; just, exactly.

征

0352

Karlgren: 833o
PinYin: zheng1
Rad./Strokes: 60+5

Punishing expedition (“to correct”), to reduce to submission, attack, punish, attack; to levy taxes; comes, brings.

征吉 0476: brings good fortune (appears at: 11.1, 46.0, 47.6, 49.2 and 54.1).

征凶 2808: brings misfortune (appears at: 9.6, 27.2, 34.1, 41.2, 47.2, 49.3, 49.6, 51.6, 54.0 and 64.3).

政

0355

Karlgren: 833r
PinYin: zheng4
Rad./Strokes: 66+5; 66+4

Standard, law (civil, not criminal), regulation, government.

From 0351 正, “correct” and 攴 (支), “beat”.

See also 7685 獄: criminal lawsuits.

拯

0360

Karlgren: 896i
PinYin: zheng3
Rad./Strokes: 64+6

Relief, rescue, to lift up, to raise; geld, remove (Kunst, Rutt).

成

0379

Karlgren: 818a
PinYin: cheng2
Rad./Strokes: 62+2; 62+3

The Eight Trigrams

Each hexagram can be divided into two trigrams, which are groups of three consecutive lines, either the lower or the upper three lines. There are only eight trigrams, which are called ba gua, 八卦 (ba means eight) because there are only eight ways to combine broken and whole lines in groups of three.

Although tradition tells us that the trigrams preceded the hexagrams, there is no proof of that. They may have been abstracted from the hexagrams something between the creation of the Zhou Yi text (comprising The Judgment and the lines) and the composition of the Ten Wings, which mention the trigrams.

The names of the eight trigrams refer to the natural elements: Qian (Heaven), Kun (Earth), Zhen (Thunder), Kan (Water), Gen (Mountain), Xun (Wind or Wood), Li (Fire) and Dui (Lake).

It is important to understand the symbolic meanings of each trigram, and how they relate to each other to comprehend better the main idea of the hexagrams.

The image at the top of the next column shows the arrangement of the trigrams in the Inner-World (Later Heaven), arrangement, which is traditionally attributed to king Wen, and is the one used in the Eight Wing, the Shuo Gua, which also provides most of the meanings for the trigrams. The South is at the top, following the traditional Chinese style. The two oracle bones characters in the middle read Zhou Yi.

The Four Cardinal Virtues*
(The Heavenly Virtues)

One or more of the cardinal virtues appear in 50 different hexagrams, but only the hexagrams 1, 2 (with some modification), 3, 17, 19, 25 and 49 have the four virtues in its Judgment. Since the Han Dynasty onwards they have become keywords of Confucian thought, four qualities or virtues applicable both to Heaven and to the noble-minded man.

	元	亨	利	貞
Pinyin	yuan2	heng1	li4	zhen1
#	7707	2099	3867	0346

元: YUAN: Fundamentality, primal, origin(ating), spring season, head, sublime, great, grand.

The Yuan sacrifice was presented in Spring, during the sowing time.

亨: HENG: Success, prevalence, growing, penetrating, treat, offering, sacrifice (with overtones of auspiciousness and acceptability).

The Heng sacrifice was presented in Summer, when the harvest was still growing.

利: LI: Advantageous, suitable, favorable, beneficial, suitable, lucky, favorable, beneficial, furthering, fitness.

“The word LI may have followed a semantic development like ‘sharp’ > ‘trenchant, incisive’ > ‘incisive determination’> ‘advantageous determination’ > ‘advantageous in general’.” (Kunst).

貞: ZHEN: Determination, perseverance, constancy, correct and firm, divination, augury (originally it defined the divinatory act that helped to determine how to act).

* The dictionary entries for each character have more specific information about each virtue.

p	pay	strongly aspirated p, as in pit
m	may	as in English mummy
f	fair	as in English fun
d	stop	unaspirated t, as in stop
t	take	strongly aspirated t, as in top n	nay	as in English nit
l	lay	as in English love
g	skill	unaspirated k, as in skill
k	kay	strongly aspirated k, as in kill
h	hay	like the English h if followed by “a”. It is pronounced roughly like the Scots ch and Russian x (Cyrillic “kha”).
j	hatch	No equivalent in English. Like q, but unaspirated. Not the s in Asia, despite the common English pronunciation of “Beijing”.
Pinyin	English	Explanation
q	cheek	No equivalent in English. Like cheek, with the lips spread wide with ee. Curl the tip of the tongue downwards to stick it at the back of the teeth and strongly aspirate.

x	she	No equivalent in English. Like she, with the lips spread and the tip of your tongue curled downwards and stuck to the back of teeth when you say ee.
zh	junk	Rather like ch (a sound between choke, joke, true, and drew, tongue tip curled more upwards). Voiced in a toneless syllable.
ch	church	as in chin, but with the tongue curled upwards; very similar to nurture in American English, but strongly aspirated.
sh	shirt	as in shoe, but with the tongue curled upwards; very similar to marsh in American English
r	ray	Similar to the English z in azure and r in reduce, but with the tongue curled upwards, like a cross between English “r” and French “j”.
z	reads	unaspirated c, similar to something between suds and cats; as in suds in a toneless syllable
c	hats	like the English ts in cats, but strongly aspirated, very similar to the Polish c.
s	say	as in sun
w	way	as in water.
y	yea	as in yes. Before a u, pronounce it with rounded lips.

FROM THE SAME AUTHOR

Riding the changes means to take the best course between the rough waves of life. Changes are the natural waves that traverse time. The I Ching can help us to understand better the relation between external reality and our will; such insight will allow us to chart the best possible course of action and will enhance the quality of our lives.

This I Ching translation is concise and oriented towards divinatory usage. To help readers understand better the true meaning of the text, notes with historical and cultural information have been added, as well as cross-references between hexagrams.

Line by line interpretations are both general and oriented toward different aspects of life like Career, Private life and Health, Feelings and Social life.
